as two asian giants and rising power the interactions between india and china have global significance this book analyses the multifaceted and multi layered character of sino indian relations since the beginning of the 21st century in a period marked by cooperation and competition positioned in a social constructivist framework that emphasizes mutual perceptions and socialization the book draws analytical leverage from two core concepts national identity and national interest to form the basis of the research inquiry the author argues that the dynamics of national identity and national interest play an important role in determining their relations and shows how and why in the current international structure including a context of accelerated globalization their national identities as rising power and emerging power coupled with national interest of economic development have defined and directed their international positions and foreign policy making a unique approach to analysing sino indian relations this book is of interest to academics in the fields of asian politics and international relations china has been growing at over ten per cent annually since 1978 but this has only come to very widespread notice in the past decade this received wisdom about china has been largely of two types both of which more or less understand china in the context of neoliberalism the more business or business studies oriented literature seems to argue that if china does not adapt the rule of clear and distinct property and contract law in short of western institutions its economy will stall the second set of voices is more clearly from the left arguing that the chinese economy and city is neo liberal for them china does not diverge widely from the anglo american model that from 2008 has brought the world economy to its knees china constructing capitalism takes issue with these analyses the authors argue that it is not western neo liberalism that is constructing the chinese economy but instead that china is constructing its own version of capitalism the two central theses of their argument are economic life neo liberal economic life is individualized and disembedded while the china model is relational and situated urban change china has created a form of local state capitalism which stands in contrast to neoliberal versions of the city this book analyses china as a risk culture examining among others chinese firms and political ties property development migrant urbanisms and share trading rooms it scrutinises the ever present shadow of the risk averse yet uncertainty creating state china constructing capitalism is a must read for social scientists policy makers and investors this edited book focuses on the dynamic balance between global cultural diversity and multilateral convergence in relevant policy areas that involve actual and potential policy convergences and divergences the environment trade peace and security and human rights it offers theoretical reflections about the impact of the concept of multiple modernities on new ideas cultural backgrounds and or national or regional particularities an interdisciplinary team of authors combines comparative policy analysis with theoretical dialogue about the conceptual institutional normative and political dimensions of a new kind of multilateral cooperation finally the book concludes that by stimulating an intercultural dialogue which goes beyond a mere rational choice approach we can foster progress through a better understanding of the opportunities and limitations offered by a pluralist varied post hegemonic and multilayered form of multilateral cooperation this book will be of key interest to scholars and students of european eu studies economics human rights climate change history cultural studies international relations international political economy security studies and international law
